What is Ready Georgia?

Launched January 2008, Ready Georgia is a statewide campaign supported by GEMA/Homeland Security that motivates Georgians to take action to prepare for a disaster. GEMA is a state agency that is responsible for coordinating emergency preparedness, mitigation, response, recovery and special events.

The Ready Georgia campaign provides a local dimension to Ready America, a broader national campaign that focuses on educating citizens so they are better prepared for disasters. The Georgia campaign is supported by Governor Nathan Deal, the Ad Council, The Home Depot and volunteer organizations, and it seeks to coordinate a cohesive statewide program and a call to action regarding emergency preparedness.

Goal of Ready Georgia

Ready Georgia targets all Georgia residents in an effort to educate and engage them in the preparedness process. Research indicates that as many as 87 percent of Georgians are not adequately prepared to react to a disaster, with 36 percent claiming they would be completely unprepared in the wake of a disaster. In addition, a recent survey shows that Georgians who are familiar with the Ready campaign are twice as likely to be prepared.

By informing residents about the need for stockpiling necessary supplies and developing communications plans, the campaign seeks to prepare citizens to maintain self-sufficiency for at least 72 hours following an emergency, such as a hurricane, flood or terrorist attack.

Ready Georgia Campaign Messages

- Prepare – Create a Ready kit by purchasing items outlined in the Ready checklist. Items are inexpensive and readily available at local home stores.
- Plan – Create a disaster preparedness plan that includes specific information about how you expect to reconnect with loved ones, evacuate or reach safety. Periodically conduct fire drills and other activities so that a plan will be in place during different types of emergencies.
- Stay Informed – Be informed about the different types of emergencies that could occur and appropriate responses.

Ready Georgia Campaign Elements
